

Perils of the Lighthouse

When a sailor gets to thinking
He is one of the best.
Let him ship out on a lightship
And take the acid test.
If he still feels like bragging,
I don't think that all his tales
Will be of deep sea sailing,
But of the ship that never sails.

by C. TUCKER